

They marched for an hour, at the cost of immense fatigue, and had accomplished little more than two miles, steadily up hill. There was no change in the appearance of the nature of the plateau

It was absolutely necessary to call a halt in order to get a little rest. .

- :